

Update to my bottle story. As you read, I estimated the concessions stand renovation to have been done in 1964 or 1965. I was off by one year. It was actually done in 1966 and here is why I know that. When we tore down the garage door and the 2x10 framing that it was bolted to, we found magic marker writings on the wall under the frame. A picture of these names is on the website next to the bottle picture. It would be fun to discover who wrote the names and who the names belonged to.

Someone wrote "lovable lous boys", followed by the names larry, johnn, "with two Ns" and steve. We have no idea who lou is but we think the johnn might be john zeh who worked in the concession stand and the steve might be steve ober. The larry might be larry niensteel who lived on maple tree two doors up from me. the mystery continues!
